WILLAMETTE VALLEY

ARTERBERRY MARESH DUNDEE

OVERVIEW | Jim Maresh is the third generation of the Maresh vineyard and winery family. He's been surrounded by grapes his entire life, and became involved in wine production in earnest before the age of twenty. The Maresh vineyard dates back to 1959, when Jim (the current Jim's grandfather) and Loie Maresh purchased their 27 acre hilltop orchard smack in the center of Dundee's Red Hills -- now called the "Cote d'Or" of Oregon Pinot Noir. Gradually expanding to 124 acres of possibly the most prime vineyard real estate in Oregon, Maresh Vineyard, planted predominately to Pommard clones, is the fifth oldest in Oregon, with plantings from 1970 on. Chardonnay, Pinot Gris, Riesling, and Sauvignon Blanc are also planted in small quantities.

VINEYARD AREA: 124 acres

SOIL TYPES: jory (volcanic red clay)

GRAPE VARIETIES: pinot noir, chardonnay

Jim and Loie's daughter, Martha Maresh, married Fred Arterberry in the early 1980s. Fred made wine for the family (at the Eyrie Vineyards' winery) under the "Arterberry Cellars" label. Fred's 1985 Arterberry Reserve Pinot Noir received 95 points from Wine Spectator, an unheard of score for the time. In 1990, with Fred's passing, the Arterberry Cellars label disappeared and other wineries purchased the fruit, with some wines made under the Red Barn label for sale at the Maresh family tasting room.

Jim Arterberry-Maresh revived the Arterberry label with the 2005 vintage, incorporating his last name "Arterberry Maresh." He runs his young winery with a brash self confidence and determination to make juicy, beautiful Pinot Noir with subtle minerality and a distinctive thread of acidity as well as some of the finest, purest, most balanced Chardonnay coming out of Oregon today. Jim is a student of Burgundy and Champagne, and counts Evesham Wood and Eyrie among his local influences for their proven ageability.
